Brainspotting is the revolutionary and highly effective mind-body treatment that uses relevant eye positions to access the brain/body's innate self-scanning and self-healing capacities, and thus release the core neurobiological sources of emotional and/or body pain, trauma, dissociation, and a variety of challenging symptoms.

Who is this training for? This course for Psychologists (Introductory Level), Social Workers (Beginning Level), MFTs, Counselors, Creative Arts Therapists and Chemical Dependency Counselors – Introductory Levels

Presenters:

Christine Ranck, PhD, LCSW and Cynthia Schwartzberg, LCSW are Senior Brainspotting Trainers and Supervisors with over 30 years of experience in private practice, Christine in NYC and Cynthia in NYC/Atlanta. Close colleagues of Dr. David Grand, discoverer/developer of Brainspotting, they participate in a monthly consultation group with Dr. Grand. They specialize in working with survivors of profound trauma, and in creativity and performance enhancement for athletes, artists and performers, and are internationally known seminar leaders and speakers.
